LENT

The Lenten season continues this month with midweek evening prayer services, using music from the Iona community. The theme for our reflections is "Sensing the Gospel," and our March Wednesdays will cover taste, smell, and hearing.

Worship begins at 7:00 pm, but if you come between 6 and 6:30, you can also experience the taste and smell of our soup suppers. There's still time to make this a part of your Lenten practice this year!

Holy Week comes early with Palm Sunday worship on March 20th. On Maundy Thursday, we'll have a Noon worship service with Holy Communion again for those who cannot make the evening service. Then we'll have the traditional Maundy Thursday worship at 7:00 pm, which concludes with the stripping of the altar in preparation for Good Friday.

Holy Week

Good Friday worship at 7:00 pm will again be a tenebrae service (progressive darkness.) Our Lenten prayer cross will take on a new look this evening as well. Our theme this year will be a contemporary take on the Reproaches from the Cross. The Reproaches are a rarely used ancient tradition, but we will be using them for the basis of reflection as our light diminishes throughout the sanctuary. The Reproaches highlight the essential injustice of the Crucifixion, the culpability of humanity in this action, and the role of sin in those times and our times in bringing this about. We are given remarkable gifts by God, and yet we too often turn our backs on God and deny God due reverence in our lives and in our worship.

EASTER

Easter Sunday, we join our voices in praise and celebration of the resurrection! Remember to bring a flower from your home to help decorate our renewed and resurrected Easter cross. If you forget, we'll have some available for you as you enter the worship service.

Many of us have known people who have had Alzheimer's or other forms of dementia, and know how hard it is to watch the loved one you know slowly disappear. But you also know that, every once in a while, you see glimpsers of that person still there. My experience has been that the faith rituals that are so deeply embedded never completely disappear.

For example, I will always remember Vic. When I met him on my first visit to him, his Alzheimer's was already advanced. For some reason, he was always fixated on "red beans and rice" - some of the few words he said. He didn't know his wife's name, but his love for her was clearly on his face he looked at her. And he still loved Holy Communion and the Words of Institution. He would say them along with me. Those words are embedded deep in one's soul.

The Lord's Prayer, words to favorite hymns, the Words of Institution, the benediction... so many rituals that bring peace to a soul when they have become such a strong part of someone's faith journey in life. That is a gift - not only to the person who remembers the words, but also to the family who sees glimpses of their loved ones responding with such deep faith.

Yesterday, I heard a new story that speaks to such strong identity that never quite gets lost. I attended the annual prayer breakfast that Congresswoman Eddie Bernice Johnson holds at Fair Park. The main speaker was Mayor Sylvester Turner from Houston. He shared stories about his mother, who had been the rock of his family growing up. His father, who worked several jobs, died of cancer when he was 13. His mother became a single mother to the nine children, and was a strong model of faith and hope for him. Her tag line was always "tomorrow will be better." She always encouraged and pushed her kids to achieve. Even though neither she nor her husband had finished high school, Sylvester himself was his high school valedictorian, went on to graduate from college and then Harvard Law School.

But my favorite part of his story was about his mother in her later progression of Alzheimer's. She got to the point where she didn't know her nine children's names, but he said she always knew her own name. "Who are you?" "I'm Ruby Mae Turner." It was never just Ruby, but always the full name. You see, her name was something that she said could never be taken from her. She instilled that in her kids too. Your name is your identity. It is who you are, and you protect that name. You make it proud and strong and true. Right up to the end. Just as important in her identity was Christian. That was what MADE her name strong and true.

Christian. Follower of Christ. Child of God. Loved one. Those words all define who we are and are part of our identity right to the very end. When I am with someone who is near death, I leave them with a blessing. I make the sign of the cross on their forehead, reminding them of their identity in baptism. I bless them with the words of the benediction. I call them "Child of God." Those words do not leave us. They are embedded deep in our souls. With them, you can see more than a glimpse of God's love.

MITZI, a huge success. St. Luke's Souper Bowl collection for Network's milk program was a big success. Mitzi, the cow, was picked up Tuesday, February 16th, and she contained $588.95. St. Lukers, you did it again! Thanks to everyone for your generous contributions.

$2,160.00 can provide milk for families for an entire month!

Booksome Ladies

On Wednesday, March 16th, at 9:30 a.m., the Booksome Ladies will meet in the Conrad Library. We will discuss Kristin von Kreisler's novel, An Unexpected Grace. It is the story of Lila Elliot who was wounded in a senseless shooting rampage at her office. Her injuries will heal in time, but she can't move past her fear and anger. Lila is drafted into caring for Grace—a shaggy, formerly abused golden retriever—and that adds to her stress. Grace, like Lila, needs time and space to recover, and she only perks up for Adam, the neighbor who rescued her. Though struggling to make sense of her recent tragedy, Lila, an accomplished artist, begins to see beauty in Grace's wisps of fur and haunted eyes. In helping Grace to trust, Lila is gently nudged toward the courage she needs to do the same. Poignant and uplifting, this book is a beautifully written story of compassion, healing, and true soul mates, in all their guises.

Even if you haven't read the book, everyone is welcome to come and enjoy this friendly group.

Pleasant reading,
Martha Eastwood

Believe it or not....It's time to order flowers to decorate the chancel area for Easter. We will again use a variety of flowers like we did last year. If you want to help purchase them, they are $8.50 each and you may give them in honor or in memory of someone. You may put the money in your offering envelope with the designation for Easter flowers or pick up a special envelope on the table in the narthex. The deadline for ordering is March 15th.

Pastor Kris will have new member class for anyone wishing to join St. Luke's on Sunday, April 10 following the worship service. If you are interested in joining, please let her know.
